NORFOLK SOCIETY.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

NORFOLK, VA., June 2.—If found at all, society in Norfolk must be found out-of-doors. All of the winter and the early spring entertainments and amuserments have been abandoned. There are no more great receptions at the handsome residences in the city. They are divided into smaller receptions, which occur every day at the simpler, but none the less hospitable cottages on the seashore. They are informal, and, therefore, more delightful, if not quite so distinguished. The chaperones and conductors or managers of these parties demand that they shall be called "informal," for reasons of their own, which no man can comprehend. The only difference a man perceives is that the girls are dressed in a simpler and more comfortable manner, and their mothers are more natural and gracious. It is understood, of course, that the mothers have manners which are a great deal stiffer and less charming, and that the girls have costlier gowns and more brilliant jewels, but that their sprightliness of conversation and the personal charms of a woman in the simple life of a pretty home, far counterbalance all the fads of fashion or the adornments of wealth.

Mr. Charles C. Waddill, Mr. and Mrs. But, Adams, Dr. and Mrs. Herbert Drewry, Mrs. E. M. Henry, Mrs. Bo. Tuck-ner and Mrs. John B. Jenkins, Mrs. B. D. Tuck-er, Mrs. Valter Sharp, Mrs. But, Mrs. William L. Tait, Mr. and Mrs. V. J. Ames Iredell Jonkins, Mrs. Mary Bull, Mrs. William L. Tait, Mr. and Mrs. William L. Tait, Mr. and Mrs. Pred Greenwood, Miss Anne Henry, Miss Robella Tucker, Miss Evelyn Southall, Miss Ranson, Miss Susie Grice, Miss May Henry, Miss Robella Tucker, and their mothers are more natural and gracious. It is understood, of course, that the mothers have manners which are a great deal stiffer and less charming, and that the girls have costlier gowns and more brilliant jewels, but that their sprightliness of conversation and the personal charms of a woman in the simple life of a pretty home, far counterbalance all the fads of fashion

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Whitehurst gave a dinner Sunday evening at the Hampton Roads Yacht Chib. Their guests were Mr. and Mrs. Percy H. Wilson, Miss Jessia Whitehurst and Mr. Lester Wilson. A launch party was given on Tuesday to Lake Drummond by the younger circle of Portsmouth. The party was chaperoned by Mrs. Erxieben. Among those who partleipated were Misses Eria Metcalf, Blanche Odenhal, Ethel O'Nell, Mary and Lottie Capps, Atala Wood, Ethel Shaffer, Annie Sibley, Vera Osborn and Vera Guy, Messrs. William V.
